■ Market commentary

In the face of strengthening and broadening headwinds, the unbroken run of seven months of gains in equities came to an abrupt halt in September, with the MSCI World index wiping out all the gains of the preceding two months. The possibility of a more sustained rise in inflation remains the key risk for markets in coming months. While the major central banks continue to see the rise as transitory, they have become more hawkish and expect the inflation surge to continue for longer than previously anticipated.

Investors have been given much to worry about in recent weeks. The peak rate of growth after the surge following the end of Covid lockdowns is behind us; supply chain constraints are impeding growth and proving to be more persistent and damaging than previously expected; and rises in energy prices are leading to concerns that the rise in inflation we have seen will be stickier and more persistent than previously forecast, as well as directly impacting household disposable incomes and corporate profit margins. The US debt ceiling and fiscal spending package negotiations are going to the wire and unnerving investors, while in China the fallout from the regulatory clampdown this year and the shake out in the property sector are damaging to growth in the world's second largest economy.

Developed markets, measured by the MSCI World index, returned -3.0% over the month, with the UK and US returning -0.2% and -3.0% respectively. Emerging markets returned -1.6% in local terms.

Bond markets fell -1.6% overall in September, as measured by the Bank of America Merrill Lynch Global Broad Market index, with US investment grade corporate bonds and US Treasuries returning -0.5% and -0.9% respectively, while US high yield bonds returned 0.5%.

A correction has been overdue, and it could continue in the short term. We have been flagging for several months our belief that returns will be harder to come by in the months ahead, but we remain broadly constructive about risk assets. We should be prepared for some periods of volatility, but we believe we are in a long market cycle and with patience and true diversification investors will be well rewarded in the year ahead. We would therefore view any further sharp falls in markets as an opportunity to add risk to portfolios.

■ Risk warnings and important notes

Investment in the Fund may not be suitable for all investors and financial advice should be sought before proceeding with an investment. Past performance is not indicative of future returns and there can be no assurance that the performance of the Fund will achieve its stated objective. All performance is calculated on a total returns basis, net of all fees and commissions and in US dollar terms

Collective investments are generally medium to long term investments and are traded at ruling prices. The value of the Fund and any income arising from it are not guaranteed and may fall, as well as rise, due to the value of its holdings, the income derived from them, and changes in interest rates. The Fund will hold shares or units in underlying funds which invest internationally, which will be exposed to exchange rate fluctuations, and may erode any potential gains.

Higher risk investments, such as small companies (even in developed markets), emerging markets, single country debt, equity funds, high yield and sub-investment grade debt may be more prone to sudden and larger falls in value in comparison to other investments. Unregulated funds may permit a greater degree of leverage than is permitted with regulated funds that are available to the general public in South Africa, which increases volatility and the risk of larger losses should the fund's value decrease.

The Fund may contain shares or units in underlying funds that do not permit dealing every day. It is not possible to immediately assess the proper market price of these investments, as they will only be realisable on their dealing days.

A fund of fund collective investment scheme only invests in other collective investments, which levy their own charges. The fees charged within the Fund and by the managers of the underlying funds are not guaranteed and are subject to change thereby impacting the Fund's performance. Commissions and incentives may be paid and, if so, would be included in the overall costs. Deductions of charges and expenses mean that you may not get back the amount you invested.
