■ Market commentary

During September equity markets suffered their sharpest setback since the trough on 23rd March. Although a sharp rise in coronavirus cases, notably in Europe, triggered renewed restrictions, the sudden sell-off in markets was driven more by profit-taking in the big tech stocks, several of which had risen very sharply in previous weeks. The strength of the economic recovery from the lockdown induced slump continued in China and the US, but showed some signs of fading in Europe as the reimposed restrictions took their toll. Elsewhere, tensions rose between the UK and EU over the Brexit trade talks.

With the pandemic continuing to cause considerable uncertainty around growth prospects and the US Presidential election now in sight and adding to the sense of unease among investors, markets could well experience higher levels of volatility in the months ahead.

Emerging markets returned -1.6% in September in local currency. Meanwhile developed markets, measured by the MSCI World index, returned -3.4%, led by Japan and Europe, with returns of 1.3% and -0.9% respectively.

Bond markets fell overall in September, with US investment grade corporate bonds returning -0.3% compared with 0.2% from Treasuries, while high yield bonds returned -1.0%.

2021 promises to be a year of robust recovery in economies and corporate earnings, and risk assets will have continuing strong support from ultra-loose monetary policy for years ahead. Furthermore, markets are not discounting the early roll-out of a vaccine; any good news on this front would be a major boost to confidence and sentiment and might well herald a period of significant outperformance by value stocks over growth. We therefore expect markets to move higher through 2021 and would use setbacks in the months ahead as a buying opportunity.

■ Risk warnings and important notes

Investment in the Fund may not be suitable for all investors and financial advice should be sought before proceeding with an investment. Past performance is not indicative of future returns and there can be no assurance that the performance of the Fund will achieve its stated objective. All performance is calculated on a total returns basis, net of all fees and commissions and in US dollar terms

Collective investments are generally medium to long term investments and are traded at ruling prices. The value of the Fund and any income arising from it are not guaranteed and may fall, as well as rise, due to the value of its holdings, the income derived from them, and changes in interest rates. The Fund will hold shares or units in underlying funds which invest internationally, which will be exposed to exchange rate fluctuations, and may erode any potential gains.

Higher risk investments, such as small companies (even in developed markets), emerging markets, single country debt, equity funds, high yield and sub-investment grade debt may be more prone to sudden and larger falls in value in comparison to other investments. Unregulated funds may permit a greater degree of leverage than is permitted with regulated funds that are available to the general public in South Africa, which increases volatility and the risk of larger losses should the fund's value decrease.

The Fund may contain shares or units in underlying funds that do not permit dealing every day. It is not possible to immediately assess the proper market price of these investments, as they will only be realisable on their dealing days.

A fund of fund collective investment scheme only invests in other collective investments, which levy their own charges. The fees charged within the Fund and by the managers of the underlying funds are not guaranteed and are subject to change thereby impacting the Fund's performance. Commissions and incentives may be paid and, if so, would be included in the overall costs. Deductions of charges and expenses mean that you may not get back the amount you invested.
